2019 NJOMA Conference

The group again wants to express their gratitude to all who helped & donated for them to be here at the National Johnson O'Malley Conference in Las Vegas.

Watching these students present continuously reminds me that native youth do care about their community and each other. Students genuinely have a voice, and as educators, it's our job to create a model & comfortable space for them to express it. These students have grown tremendously since we started this advocacy group and I would like to express my gratitude to all who have given them an opportunity to speak by listening to them with an open mind. We would like to express our gratitude to all the advisors past and present that have helped shape this group and to all of the students for their courage in sharing their stories.

As this group continues to grow to meet the needs of all students, so far we are grateful for these different opportunities to share, learn, explore, and try new things. Some of the students flew for the first time, many tried new foods, and all of them presented for the first time at both a regional and national conference using what words they knew in the Dakota language and with professionalism, maturity, and from their hearts. I look forward to seeing these young people grow up and continue to give back to their people and communities. I hope you join me in your pride for the youth from the Wakpa Ipaksan community.

To Whom It May Concern,

Thank you for your interest in the homeownership program through HUD Section 184. The Tribe is in the preliminary stages of researching the needs of its community and the affordability of implementing this program. The attached form will assist the Tribe in its research.

Please complete the form and return it to the Housing office within 14 days from the date of this letter. You may consider the future needs of your household by indicating how many bedrooms you will need (2-5). Do not include the FSST General Welfare benefit as income on the form.

By submitting the form, you are not committed to applying for the Section 184 Program. Similarly, the Tribe is not committed to providing you a home under the Program. If you have any questions about the form, you may contact me at 997-2194.

Sincerely,

Shelli Marshall

Non-Indian casino opposed by tribes suffers setback in South Dakota

Tuesday, February 26, 2019

A non-Indian casino opposed by tribes in two states has been sidelined for now in South Dakota.

The State Senate voted 13 to 22 on Monday to kill Senate Joint Resolution 5, a bill that would have put the Port Yankton Project to a vote of the people. Among those voting against advancing the measure were two Indian lawmakers -- Sen. Troy Heinert (D), who is Rosebud Sioux and serves as the Democratic leader in the chamber, and Sen. Red Dawn Foster (D), who is Oglala Sioux.

The Yankton Sioux Tribe operates the Fort Randall Casino and Hotel, only about an hour's drive from the proposed development along the Missouri River. Across the border in Nebraska, the Santee Sioux Nation expressed concerns about a facility only 40 minutes from its Ohiya Casino and Resort.

Non-Indian gaming is already legal in Deadwood in South Dakota. Facilities there offer slot machines, card games and dice games.

Under the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, tribes are entitled to offer the same types of games that are legal in a state. But the state has limited most tribes to just 250 slot machines as part of their Class III gaming compacts.

In total, the Deadwood casinos offer more than 3,200 slot machines, according to the South Dakota Commission on Gaming's most recent annual report. That's far more than the nine tribes with gaming compacts.

Despite the defeat in the South Dakota Legislature, proponents of the casino in Port Yankton could still organize a petition drive in hopes of putting the issue on the ballot in 2020, according to news reports. A decision hadn't been made on that angle.
